International trade has become a hot political topic and a populist issue throughout the world. Now it is time to separate the political rhetoric from reality as the U.S. carefully crafts the promised changes to the North American Free Trade Agreement. Who are the winners and losers in the agreement? What needs to be changed and what needs to be preserved? What is at stake? Join this stimulating conversation with Ambassador Shaun Donnelly to inform and address your questions.

Ambassador Donnelly has over 30 years experience with the U.S. Department of State in a wide range of roles including: Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Economic and Business Affairs; U.S. Ambassador to Sri Lanka; Deputy Assistant Secretary for International Trade; Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Tunisia; and a detail as Assistant U.S. Trade Representative for Europe and the Middle East. Now retired from government, he is currently Vice President of the U.S. Council for International Business, an independent U.S. business advocacy group that promotes expansion of access for American products and services in markets around the world.
